The Woman in Black – a ghost story

Written by Susan Hill & successfully adapted for the stage by Stephen Malatratt.

This is a quietly shudder-some ghost story capable of chilling the flesh of the most hardened horror fanatic. Arthur Kipps, a middle-aged solicitor, hires a theatre and the services of a professional actor to help him re-enact and hopefully exorcise a ghostly event that befell him many years earlier with horrifyingly tragic results.

This is an immaculate example of a Gothic horror. Imagine an isolated house, marshland and a spectre seeking vengeance for the death of her young child.

- don't come alone....!
