Down the Rabbit Hole's first immersive theatre production is "Elsie and Norm's 'Macbeth'" by John Christopher-Wood a comical re-telling of Shakespeare's Macbeth, commemorating the 400th anniversary of the bard's death. Elsie and Norm invite you into their living room for tea and a little culture. They have decided to perform Shakespeare's Macbeth for you, but they believe that Shakespeare's poetry is not very good and there are too many roles, so they have made some changes. You will be joining Elsie and Norm on their crazy retelling of Shakespeare's most murderous of tales, while the play unfolds around you. Elsie and Norm's "Macbeth" is a fun and crazy experience that you just can't miss.
