Is my behaviour caused by my will? Can a collective of people exist without shared norms?

Collective Behaviour is a dance performance investigating the symmetry between individual identity and collective identification.

Through the use of projections and reflections the performance space is distorted, duplicated and expanded, causing a bend of time and of the individuality of the dancers.

Collective Behaviour is a collaboration between Korean artists Kimchi and Chips and Danish choreographer Simone Wierød.

The project is supported by Arts Council Korea, Statens Kunstfond, Bikubenfonden, Københavns Kommune and Seoul Dance Center.
