SAME SHIT, DIFFERENT PLANET
(MARTIAN TOOTHACHE)

by Fergal O'Byrne

A UNIVERSAL PREMIERE!

A fast-paced and humorous look at the future. The year is 2251. Humans have successfully colonized Mars. However, an unknown microbe is playing havoc with peoples' teeth causing them to decay dramatically. The opening day of a Martian Dental surgery becomes a cauldron of tension and intrigue trickery. Martian Colonists want independence and to control their own minerals and destinies, but have long loyalties with Mother Earth, who want the colonists to help save the now-dying planet. This is an emotional, funny, touching, quirky, robotic, thirsty, thought-provoking and dusty comedy.
